Recruitment through IBPS is a total failure

OUR BUREAU

Thiruvananthapuram, July 13
Recruitment in banks through the Institute of Banking Personnel Selection (IBPS) is a total failure and has created regional imbalances, according to Syndicate Bank Staff Association.

A major fallout is that it has fuelled attrition, according to KS Bhat, Vice-President of the Association.

The delay involved in the process has accentuated staff shortage and banks are unable to provide adequate and timely service to customers, or monitor advances.

Revival of the Banking Service Recruitment Board or vice recruitment is the way out, Bhat said while addressing a joint regional conference of the Association with Syndicate Bank Officers Organisation.

He urged the Centre to hold a meaningful dialogue with trade unions to evolve a permanent solution to the present crisis in the banking industry. Deviation from traditional and mass banking practice is one of the main reasons for the crisis, he said, noting that there had been no recruitment in banks from 1985 to 2010.

Morale of staff low

At Syndicate Bank, unscientific transfers and employment of existing staff have lowered morale. Conventional HR policies are often not adhered to.

The process of elevation of part-time employees, as well as regularisation of temporary employees are given a go-ahead depending on the whims and fancies of regional offices.

Employees are in complete disarray, following the introduction of the Human Resource Management System, Bhat said.

A situation has come about where employees are overburdened with work. Almost all branches are facing short-

The new facility is available on the official e-filing portal of the department and will work by using the One Time Password (OTP) verification system as activated by the department last year by using the Aadhar number.

These measures are used to validate e-ITR so that the taxpayer does not take the trouble of sending the paper-based ITR-V by post to the Bengaluru-based Central Processing Centre (CPC) for final resolution and processing.

The new ITRs were notified earlier this year and taxpayers can e-file their ITRs till July 31.

New Delhi, July 13

The Income Tax Department has widened the ATM-based validation system for filing e-ITRs by taxpayers, with the inclusion of Axis Bank as part of the measure to enhance the paperless regime of filing the annual ITR returns. The facility was activated at SBI last month.

Now Electronic Verification Code (EVC) can also be generated by pre-validated Automated Teller Machine (ATM) provided by Axis Bank. SBI had activated the facility last month. Other banks are also expected to join in soon, a senior I-T department official said.

In May, the department had launched the bank account-
